tee in one of the most sweeping overhauls of Italy's banking laws since 1936, has empowered the nation's banks to expand through acmisitions and has given foreign banks the right to start operating anywhere in the country. The new regulations, which are to take effect in June, also streamline domestic lending practices and sweep aside most obstacles for Italian banks wanting to set up operations abroad.

The new policy, approved late Thursday by the Interministerial Committee for Credit and Savings, appears to be aimed at meeting a 1992 European Community deadline for a fully integrated European banking system. Analysts said the reforms were likely to lead to a radical consolidation of Italy's fragmented banking industry and set the stage for the emergence of foreign banks as major players in the Italian domestic market.

"The changes are revolutionary," said Elio Tartaglia, managing director of Banco di Santo Spirito in Rome: "They have finally allowed the banks to be grown-ups." Italy's current banking rules prohibit foreign banks from operating in markets outside their primary place of business, except when dealing with foreign companies or Italian exporters. The rules also have limited most of the country's more than 1,000 banks to local operations by restricting their ability to set up branches.

Under the new regulations, which sharply reform the country's cornerstone 1936 Banking Act, domestic banks will now be empowered to buy branches from one another or to purchase the right to operate in markets currently dominated by other local banks or one of Italy's three national banks.

Foreign banks, also effectively limited to one locality, will now be free to compete for deposits or business anywhere in the country, although their ability to set up branch offices will still be limited.

The panel also streamlined standards for granting medium- and ong-term loans, clearing the way for individual banks to react more quickly to lending opportunities. Under current regulations, most of the country's seven types of banks are restricted to issuing only sbort-term loans of up to 18 months exercise for house leave and months, except for house loans and other specific exceptions.

Soviet offer.

By Paul Lewis New York Times Service

PARIS - The NATO allies are sels that the Reagan administration moving toward accepting a modi-fied version of the Soviet Union's offer to remove its medium- and short-range nuclear missiles from Europe if the United States does the same, officials say.

Under the emerging alliance po-sition, members of the North Atlanuc Treaty Organization would accept the so-called double-zero offer on the condition that West Germany's 72 aging Pershing-1A missiles are excluded from the agreement and possibly modernized, these sources said.

The Pershing-1As, whose nucle-ar warheads are under U.S. control, are short-range weapons, capable of traveling 300 to 600 miles (500 to 1.000 kilometers). After two days of talks with Presdent François Mitterrand and Prime Minister Jacques Chirac of France, Chancellor Helmut Kohl of West Germany said at a news conference Friday that he was "examining very seriously" the possi-bility of eliminating short-range missiles as well as medium-range weapons, which can hit targets 600 to 3,000 miles away.

"We think it's a good idea to eliminate these arms," be said, adding that he would give Bonn's final response on June 4.

Mr. Kohl stressed West Germany's special position because of its East bloc border, thus facing the Warsaw Pact's superior array of battlefield nuclear systems, conventional arms and chemical weap-

Any agreement on eliminating medium- and short-range missiles must be ued, therefore, to further negotiations aimed at removing other imbalances between the two sides' forces, he added.

Mr. Mitterrand endorsed the double-zero plan, calling it "a good initiative." But be expressed sympathy with Bonn's reservations and cknowledged that eliminating the Pershing-IAs would create special difficulties for West Germany. Signs of progress toward a unit-ified double-zero pact came the day Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher's Free Democrats favor after a U.S. official warned in Brusthe offer while Mr. Kohi's Christian Democrats fear it would leave was losing patience with Bonn's West Germany exposed in the suinability to make up its mind on the perior might of the Warsaw Pact.

(2.500 meters) above the sea, light from distant origins of the universe may be jeopardized.

The company, the Societe Nouvelle d'Exploitation de la Tour Eiffel, plans to launch an "Eiffel Tower in space" three years from now to celebrate the monument's centenary.

It will consist of a "necklace" of 100 reflective balloons and plastic tubes, 15 miles (24 kilometers) in circumference, that will appear as big as the full moon and shine with reflected sunlight as brightly as stars of the first magnitude.

Many astronomers contend that the object will damage delicate telescopic equipment that is being used to study pbenomena on the known outer limits of the universe.

"Do the people of Paris want to be remembered as the people who stooped research inm optical astronomy?" asked Paul Murdin, bead of the astronomy division of the Royal Greenwich Observatory in Britain. # Polish Historian Seeks to Evaluate, Exploit Gorbachev's Reforms

By Jackson Dichl

Washington Past Service WARSAW - Adam Michnik has spent most of the 1980s in a prison cell, a symbol both of Poland's defiant opposition movement and the intolerance of its Communist government.

Now, only 10 months after being released in an annesty, he finds himself grappling with the issue of whether the system that imprisoned him is moving toward real change under Mikhail S. Gorbachev, the Soviet leader.

The question is one that is facing a generation of opposition activists and intellectuals in Eastern Europe who have spent their lives struggling against Soviet-backed Comlist rule. And it is one for which Mr. Michnik, as the increasingly renowned theoretician of Poland's democratic opposition, has a particular standing of authority.

So far, said Mr. Michnik, 40, he is counseling that Mr. Gorbachev's reform drive he stimulated rather than dismissed. "One shouldn't say that nothing changes in Russia," he said. "One should up the ante." At the same time, Mr. Michnik, a historian, leaves no doubt about the criteria by which he believes Mr. Gorbachev should be judged.

were two princesses and four princes, including Prince Phiwokakhe Dlamini, the minister of labor and public service, and Prince Bhekimpi Dlamini, dismissed as prime minister by the king in October.

Dissidents Test Glasnost, Propose Radical Journal

By Gary Lee

ton Post Service MOSCOW - A group of newly released political prisoners, heeding the Kremlin leadership's exhortations for Soviets to speak out, is seeking official permission to publish a periodical of news and opinion called Glasnost to supplement the statecontrolled media.

The publication, if approved, would be the first such Soviet publication not under governmental control. Its title is taken from the word used by Mikhail S. Gorba-chev for "openness" and its fate is viewed as a major test of the leader's policy of encouraging free speech and criticism.

"In contrast to our past activities, we are not seeking confrontation with the authorities," said Sergei Grigoryants, 45, the chief editor and organizer. Mr. Grigoryants was released from prison in February after serving three and a half years for editing the underground buman rights publication Bulletin V

"We are trying to fill gaps in what is already available, supplying information on areas that are not covered or only par-tially covered," he said. "The things we're interested in do not appear elsewhere. We're trying to take advantage of glas-

"We want to go through all the legal channels," he said. "We don't want to do anything secretly or underground." But he added, "If we don't get official approval, we will print it anyway. It will be more difficult, but we will do it,"

The attempt to publish Glasnost comes in conjunction with what some Soviets have described as an outpouring of articles and literary works circulating in samizdat, or clandestine publications, following official encouragement of greater openness and civie involvement,

The appeal of former political prisoners for official permission is part of a potentially taxing issue for the Kremlin leadership: what to do with the 150 political prisoners pardoned and released in February. Many are eager to resume writing or nizing around such issues as human organizing around such issues as human rights, for which they were initially imprisoned

The editors of the proposed journal have asked to present a pilot edition of Glasnost next week to Alexander Yakovlev, an aide to Mr. Gorbachev, a nonvoting member of the ruling Polithuro and an architect of the glasnost campaign. The issue consists of unpublicized speeches, notes on gatherings and exhibits taking place in the capital, and opinion pieces.

It includes a speech by a senior procurator documenting corruption in outlying Soviet republics, an exposé of foot-dragging in a Moscow factory on the leadership's reforms, an update of the situation of the 150 political prisoners released in February and a profile of Ivan Fedorchuk, a Baprist imprisoned in 1983.

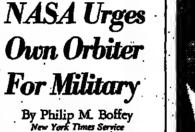

Mr. Grigoryants said the organizers have "no objection" to the publication being regularly presented to Glaviit, the official censorship organization, whose main role is to control pornography or military secrets. The scope of material presented in the journal would be wide, Mr. Grigoryants added, but would focus on buman rights, the environment, Jewish affairs and other religious themes. These are areas not dealt with in existing publications. Mr. Grigorvants said

The journal is scheduled for publication three times a month. Mr. Grigoryants said the organizers have already collected enough material for 15 issues. Initial circulation would be limited to 100, he said, but would expand gradually.

The editors have gained the backing of Andrei D. Sakharov, the dissident physi-cist released from internal exile in December. Mr. Sakharov has agreed to appear at a press conference that the organizers plan to hold after they discuss the journal with Soviet officials

WASHINGTON - The National Aeronantics and Space Administration has suggested that the Defense Department should consider building its own space station, a move that could ease growing concerns in the United States and abroad over possible military uses of NASA's proposed space station.

The suggestion was made Thurs-day by Dale D. Myers, deputy administrator of the space agency, in a speech to a symposium of the Air Force Association in Colorado Springs. The space agency released a text of the speech in Washington. Mr. Myers suggested that de-mands for use of the space station by civilian, military and international customers might become so great that the Defense Department "may very well want to begin thinking seriously about a dedicated space station of its own, possibly in polar orbit." "Now is the time for a serious, long-term look" at the depart-Swiss Arrest French Ex-Casino Boss ment's future requirements in space, be said. Mr. Myers did not link his suggestion to recent developments in which foreign governments have balked at cooperating in the space station project if it is to be used for clearly military purposes. Indeed, the suggestion was made in the context of a speech stressing the importance of continued civilian and military cooperation in space. Shirley M. Green, director of public affairs for NASA, said the suggestion was "not a response" to the outcry over alleged militarization of the space station. Instead she said, it was a recognition that the air force space program has been growing rapidly and that the proposed NASA space station, to be launched in the mid-1990s, may not be able to meet all the needs envisioned by military planners. The Pentagon has not yet identified any specific uses it would make of the space station, but has been studying possibilities. Another NASA official said, bowever, that a separate military space station would inevitably help reduce complaints that the NASA space station was in danger of be-ing dominated by the Defense Department. "If they had their own space sta-tion they wouldn't mes- ours up," the official said. Defense Department spokesmen had no immediate comment on the proposal, but the air force is known to have considered the possibility of a military space station over the years.

A Residents Build Community in Desert Near Lima

In Peru, a Model Shantytown

By Tyler Bridges. ton Post Service

... VILLA EL SALVADOR, Peru - Manuela Muñoz stood beside a pile of reeds that she and her husband were using to thatch a house here in the desert near Lima, Peru's capital.

"I'm so happy to be moving here," she said. "This is the best young town in Lima." She used the upbeat Peruvian term "young town" to describe what others would call a shantytown.

"Here, the kids go to school, most people get enough to eat and you feel part of a community," Mrs. Muñoz said.

Like other major cities in Latin America, Lima has been flooded during the past two generations by peasants looking for jobs and a better life in the city.

Most have found neither. Instead, the massive migration has left Lima ringed by dozens of young towns, where millions of people scratch out a meager existence, threatened hy disease and crime.

But in Villa El Salvador, amid the squalor that threatens to overwhelm Lima's population of about six million, young people can still ouild their dreams and parents can sull live in dignity. The residents have done most of it on their own.

"We've been able to build a life for ourselves," said Julia Morales, noting that all three of her children had graduated from high school. "They would have dropped out of school early in another young town.

Villa El Salvador was created in 1971, when peasants appropriated unoccupied land on the southern edge of Lima. The police evicted them in a bloody confrontation in which one person died.

This caused such an uproar that the leftist military government in power at the time offered the squatters a large tract of desert an hour's drive from central Lima.

A month later, Villa El Salvador had 100.000 residents. Although rapid, the growth was not chaotic.

Learning From the Stark

destroyer Sheffield in the Falkland war. But these products of 1960s technology are not magic weapons. Despite their ferocity, they are casy to decoy. The question is why the Stark let down its guard and why, once hit, damage and casualties were so heavy. The answers to those questions may contain some heavy lessons for the U.S. Navy.

As has long been known, the Exocet missile's radar guidance is easily distracted. One way is to fire chaff - a cloud of reflecting metal strips that offers a larger radar target. Another is to tow a raft with a radar reflector, luring the missile to zero in on its own amplified echoes instead of the ship. Some 60 radar missiles were fired at Israeli ships during the 1973 war. Israeli crews listened alertly and fired chaff. Not one ship was hit.

The Stark carried chaff dispensers and a Phalanz gun for close-in defense. Her captain, Glenn Brindel, says neither was used because of the lack of warning, since for some reason the ship's electronic system failed to detect the missiles as they detached from the Iraqi airplane. He says the Pha-lanx gun was not kept on automatic for fear of hitting innocent targets. Understandable, maybe, but a defense system useless against surprise attacks is not very useful. Passive, off-board defenses like decoy rafts are cheap and effective, unlike the very expensive gear that engages the attention of the naval electronics community. Iranian warships are said to use such rafts. "We don't use those because we feel we have

Cheap Exocet missiles crippled the frigate Stark on Sunday and devastated the British lis "better methods" need to be supplemented with ones that actually work.

In war, navies build ships out of steel and asbestos. More convenient materials creep in during peace, like aluminum, a metal that burns fiercely at high temperatures. Perryclass frigates like the Stark are crammed with flammable gear but are unarmored, because of cost and the burden of extra weight in chasing submarines, their primary task. When hit, wild fires may follow. The Stark's aluminum superstructure kept reigniting fires for two days. Could the ship have been made more survivable?

Even without armor, much can be done to minimize damage. The navy pays close attention to fire control, and has recognized the faults of aluminum superstructures by reverting to steel in its latest hulls. But it has long resisted live-fire tests - testing survivability by firing missiles into hulks configured to resemble new ships. Instead it relies on computer simulation, a pallid substitute. Since its inventory of aluminum ships will take years to replace, no effort should be spared to enhance their survivability. The Senate rightly demands to be told how American ships will protect themselves, and Kuwaiti oil tankers flying the U.S. flag. and how the United States would respond to Iranian attacks. In the meantime, the warships in the Gulf can defend themselves. With better preparedness the chaff dispensers should work. The elderly Exocet is no reason to change U.S. policy in the Gulf. -THE NEW YORK TIMES.

From Six World Leaders, A Plea for Disarmament

This statement, written by Raúl Alfonsin, president of Argentino, was signed by him; Miguel de la Madrid, president of Mexico; Ingrar Carlsson, prime minister of Sweden; Rajiv Gandhi, prime minister of India; Julius Nyerere, president of Tanzania, and Andreas Papandreou, prime minister of Greece. It was released Friday in their capitals.

T HREE years ago, on May 22, 1984, we demanded that humanity's survival should not be jeopardized by the threat of a nuclear catastrophe. Today, we make an appeal oot to jeopardize the opportunity, to start a process of ouclear disarmament.

Since our first appeal, we have welcomed the resumption of the dialogue on nuclear and space issues. At the Geneva meeting in November 1985, President Reagan and General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev declared that "a ouclear war cannot be won and must never be fought." At Reykjavit, there was a clear demonstration that given political will, far-reaching agreements on ouclear disarmament measures could be achieved.

Disarmament negotiations are now at a crucial point. There is a real possibility for an agreement in at least one important area. A breakthrough on the issue of nuclear arms in Europe appens to be within reach. An agreement to eliminate all intermediate nuclear forces from Europe would be of considerable significance and would constitute the crossing of an important psychological threshold, since, for the first time, it would lead to mutual withdrawal and destruction of fully operational nuclear weapons systems. We, therefore, urge the United States and the Soviet Union to conduct their current negotiations with a view to bringing them to a successful conclusion during 1987.

However, an agreement on intermediate nuclear forces would be only the first step toward our common goal: the total elimination of nuclear weapons everywhere. In the New Delhi and Mexico declarations, we had called for two important measures - • halting of all nuclear testing and the prevention of an arms race in outer space. We reiterate the crucial importance of these measures. In Mexico, we made a concrete offer on verification of a halt to nuclear testing. That offer remains.

For too long, fear and mistrust have prevented progress in disarmament. Arms and fears feed on each other. Now is the time to break this vicious circle and lay the foundation for a more scoure world. The present momentum should not be lost. We urge President Reagan and General Secretary Gorbachev to live up to this challenge so that future generations are spared the nightmare of a nuclear holocaust.

cy purposes and projects. Third, it is irrelevant whether the presidential office is deemed an "entity of the United States involved in intelligence activities," because the president — if his latest "recollec-tions" are accepted — either encouraged entities involved in intelligence to circumvent the amendment or at the very least did not "take care that the laws be faithfully executed" by such entities, as Article II, Section 3, of the U.S. Constitution requires. If the puppets are subject to the law and violate it, the puppet master can-not escape accountability. And therein not escape accountability. And therein lies what appears to be the most seri-ous breach of duty by the president — a breach that may well entail an im-peachable abuse of power, however politically unlikely impeachment of this affable officeholder may be.

The constitution is indifferent to popularity and blind to personality. Yet, stripped of its technical camouflage, the latest White House position ultimately reduces to the claim that this president, being somehow outside the government, is above the law. The catire constitutional system, not to mention common sense, rebels at any such option.

The carefully crafted requirement of Article I, Section 9, that all funds raised by the government or is raised by the government or 115 agents must enter and leave the feder-al Treasury, and must do so pursuant to laws passed by Congress, would be rendered meaningless if the presi-dent, seeing himself not as an agent of the government but as an outsider, could preside freely over the creation of a shadow treasury designed to aid his shadow intelligence network in pursuit of his private schemes. Congress's control over the purse strings would be rendered a nullity if the president's pocket could con-ceal a slush fund dedicated to purposes and projects that are prohibited under the laws of the country.

When Ronald Reagan was elected on an anti-government platform, the pundits smiled. When incumbent President Reagan was re-elected on such a platform, political scientists were puzzled. But when the president's status as a perpetually be mused and patriotic ontsider is trans formed from a political stance into a shield against the rule of law, a con-stitutional crisis is at hand.

The writer is a professor of constitutional law at Harvard University. He contributed this comment to The New York Times.

It seems that a U.S. early-warning out orders, put himself - that is, put his AWACS aircraft flying a Gulf loop picked op the rising Iraqi lighter early and sum-moned two Saudi fighters into the sky just before the strike on the USS Stark. At American urging, a Saudi controller aboard the AWACS and then a Saudi officer on the ground asked the two Saudi F-15s in intercept the attacking plane in order, depend-ing on what developed, to identify it, make it land or shoot it down. But the two planes did oot have the orders permitting them to fly that mission, and not enough time was available to go up the chain of command and obtain the requisite authority. As first reported, this story was set in the context of flaring Pentagon anger at the spectacle of a friendly country doing less than it might at a moment of American distress. And it is distressing to see would-be comrades standing on protocol instead of instinctively trying to help. Except that this was merely one more aspect of the same basic element of unpreparedness for such a contingency that had left the Stark vulnerable to the deadly missiles of the Iraqi plane in the first place. An American pilot who, with-government - into a whole new realm of chance and risk in a war zone would not necessarily be decorated for it. It seems unreasonable to demand that a Saudi pilot take such a risk. There is much turbulence in the waters and skies of the Gulf region, and more planning is needed to be ready for it. Unfortunately, this is not the end of the story. The theme of ostensible Saudi unreliability was quickly taken up by some American friends of Israel as ammunition against an administration proposal to sell F-15s to Saudi Arabia. This is petty and mischievous. The new planes are replacements that would merely keep the Saudi supply level. ft is conceivable that one reason the Saudi F-15s could oot linger for further orders in the Stark incident is that their fuel capacity had been limited to keep them from being able to fly against Israel. The Stark incident was had enough without having it made worse by careless reactions that pile up oew tensions between the United States and its exposed and neryous friends in the Gulf. -THE WASHINGTON POST.

WASHINGTON - Everybody in the financial markets saw it coming: When Chicorp, the holding company for Citibank, said that $3 billion of an estimated $15 billion in These governments might now begin to challenge the powerful agricultural interests. That would save ensumers and taxpayers billions of dollars, and make a significant dent in trade imbalances.

Crops vary, but the forces driving farm policies are depressingly similar in most industrialized economies. Rapid technological change has sharply cut the demand for unskilled rural labor and given the edge to wealthier family farmers with access to capital. Meanwhile, cheap international transportation and the growth of commercial agriculture in poor countries has left all farmers vulnerable to new sources of competition.

Well-off farmers protect their interests by lobbying their governments for subsidies and import barriers. They often cast their appeal in high moral tones - the need to help small farmers or in defend rural values. But benefits are almost always proportional to crop sales or in the amount of land farmed; the real winners are the largest producers.

Efficient agricultural producers, including the United States, play this subsidy denying the use of crop land for despecately needed housing. The European Community is dumping surplus sugar on the world market at just one-fourth of production costs, impovenishing producers in the Caribbean, Central America and the Philippines.

Happily, the power of the farm lobbics seems on the wane. In Europe, subsidies to maintain the "butter mountain" have became so expensive that taxpayers are becoming restless. In the United States, farmers are themselves divided. Sugar and dairy lobbies cling to protection; grain producers see the greater risk in losing exports. In Japan, city dwellers are coming to understand that farm protection is both a drain oo living standards and a threat to the ability to export cars and computers.

That explains why the major economic powers have agreed to reassert their commitment to farm reform at the Venice summit conference in June, and then give the reforms first priority in ongoing global trade negotiations. Washington wants to cap everyone's supports at current levels, and cut them by 10 percent annually after 1988. Five years ago that would have been unthinkable. Today, the folly of farm supports is so obvious that the unthinkable has become plausible. That is oot success - but it is a start.

No Call for Magnanimity

Defiant in defeat, said Churchill, magnanimous in victory. President Reagan would have it the other way around. In defeat he is magnanimous, absolving Iraq for its deadly attack on the frigate Stark. blaming Iran instead because it refuses to end the six-year-old Gulf war. It is an injustice in the 37 lost crewmen of the Stark to seek to shift the responsibility for their deaths in an effort in curry favor with a regime that is Iran's mortal enenty and America's dubious friend.

The admiral commanding U.S. naval forces in the Gulf says the Stark was unprepared for hostile action because its officers had no reason in fear Iraq. That is a statement of astounding implications. The Stark and other U.S. ships patrolling the Gulf war zone are supposed to be serving the neutral purpose of keeping an essential international waterway open. They are not there in unannounced aid of an alleged ally. The Reagan administration has now moved additional war ships closer to the Gulf. What it should be doing is demanding that other countries share more of the burden and the risks of assuring free movement of oil through the Gulf. What it should be doing is forgetting about its ill-conceived plan to put Kuwait's oil tankers under the supposed protectioo of the American flag. - The Los Angeles Times.

that the loans were good. Thus, the banks could avoid what Citicorp finally owned up to: ao-knowledging that many of its loans were bringing in no earnings. In Citicorp's case, there was a gutsy decision to take a record loss of profits amounting to $2.5 billion in one quarter. The U.S. government has been playing tricks with reality, too. In an effort to buy time, Treasury Secretary lames Baker developed his famous debt plan in 1985. He recognized that the strategy of putting debtor countries through an economic wringer was no longer useful, and that economic growth was essential. He called for commercial banks to lead $20 billion in new money, while the World Bank and other multilater-al development banks would add $9 billion; borrowers were supposed to "reform" their economic systems to become more market-oriented. An implicit part of the deal was that the World Bank would take the lead in managing the debt crisis. But the Baker plan came a cropper. Commercial hanks resisted throwing good money after bad, and many politicians in Latin America balked at the "reforms." The World Bank mandate was never really spelled out, and what it really meant, said Barber Conable, the bank's president, was "acceptance or additional risk and additional burdens by the World Bank." Citicorp's action, meanwhile, implies that fewer, not more, resources will be committed by commercial banks to salvage the Third World mess. This may have dealt the Baker plan a mortal blow. "It is hard to magine," said Mr. Rohatyn, "that it will lead to anything except a sharp reduction in leading by the banks." Major borrowers like Brazil or Ar-gentina, he said, may decide that "if it looks less likely that they are going to get more money, and that loans will be written down, they will say, Why not act unilaterally ourselves in respect to debt service? "So the underpinning of the Baker plan appears in jeopardy. It will take time to assess the fallout from the Citicorp decision. Although Federal Reserve and Treasury officials say other banks do not necessarily have to follow Citicorp's lead, auditors and independent directors may worry about being charged later with imprudence if they, too, do oot write off bad debts, Clearly, it is time for all borrowers and leaders, working together, to bite the bullet on debt and face reality as Citicorp did. The nations headed for next month's economic summit conference in Venice, meanwhile, should seize oo the Japanese offer of up to $30 billion in additional capital for debtor nations, and designate the World Bank to work out a plan with Japan on scheduling and disburgement. If little new capital is to come from commercial banks, Japan's generous offer (and it might be increased) looks like the only new source of money for debtor nations. The Washington Post.

Spare us the sanctimony. Hamility is more in order. On the issue of ransonning bostages and aiding contras, no two American institutions have more to be embarransed about. First the media. The New York Times has noted that "something interesting" has happened "since the Iran-contra affair burst into the headlines six mouths ago.... The Beirut hostages are off the front page." But The Times ventures no theory as to why "finally and mercifully" the media have

The media, as always, scurry to the right side of the with which to beat a president, the press would not let go of the story. ly to examine the record of administration officials for violating congressional will on contra aid is, of course, e constitutional prerogative. But the air of moral superiority of some congressional inquisi-tors is hard to take. Contra policy has not exactly been Congress's finest hour.

In fact, there is not one congressional contra policy but five. Contra-1, which went into effect on Dec. 21, 1982, was based on the first Boland amendment. It said that the United States could support the contras, but not to overthrow the Nicaraguan government. That law was so absurd, and so recognized as guaranteeing deception and dissimulation, that it had to be thrown out. Hence Contra-2, wheeled out on Dec. 8, 1983. It allowed $24 million of contra support, no Boland strings attached. Then 10 months later, Contra-3: Under a second Boland amendment, Congress ent off all aid to the contras. Then, less than a year after that, Contra-4: Yes, the administration could help the contras with $27 million, but only in humanitarian aid, another absurd compromise which guaranteed deception. Guerrillas do not keep nest books. Whatever moncollaborated in this compromise. But the administration is being amply punished, while Congress now assumes the pose of aggreved bystander. Then, on Oct. 18, 1986, Contra-5, which grants full, $100 million support to the contras. And this summer Congress will proclaim Contra-6. Odds are that Congress will decide that, the executive having been insufficiently attendve to its last five directives aid will be cut off once again. Congress is a ahifting coalition of interests and factions, and so should be circumspect about conducting foreign policy, particularly on an issue on which it has shown itself incapable of defining a coherent policy. There is a reason why the constitution assigns primary responsibility for the conduct of foreign policy to the president and not Congress. The Boland saga is a case study.

The Boland saga is a case study. This administration deserves in be brought low for the Iran folly and the contra diversion. But for the media and Congress, with their records, to be allowed to knit self-righteously at the guillotine is testimony to the proposition that politics has nothing to do with justice.

Agence France-Presse MELBOURNE - The Austrahan government will not officially recognize the council of advisers that has been set up as an interim administration in Fiji, Prime Min-ister Bob Hawke said Friday.

Mr. Hawke said on a visit to Melbourne that he believed the correct solution to Fiji's constitutional crisis would be for the deposed government of Prime Minister Timoci Bavadra to govern as it was elected to do.

He added, however, that since Mr. Bavadra had accepted a call for new elections, they should be held under the existing constitution.

The Great Council of Fijian Chiefs confirmed Friday that it would appoint a 19-member comcil of advisers headed by Lieutenant Colonel Sitiveni Rabaku, who led a military coup last week, to run Fiji and review its constitution. Mr. Bavadra was named to the council. Observers said the council was an amalgam of the military regime's council of ministers and a body proposed by Figi's governor general, Ratu Sir Penaia Ganilan, who pushed for Mr. Bavadra's participation.

Mr. Bavadra promptly criticized the ducision. He said the council appeared to be stacked heavily in favor of the Alliance Party of his predecessor, Sir Kamisese Mara whom he has accused of being behind the May 14 coup.

"There are other aspects" of the interim agreement "with which I am not happy," Mr. Bavadra said in a statement. "However, I will be meeting with a number of our people on Saturday and we will collectively reach a conclusion on our future course of action." In Wellington, Prime Minister

ARTS/LEISURE

Rarities and a Patchy Price Pattern at Drouot Sale

Pin the art market. When it applies to 2 category that looms large in public awareness, it sends prices soaring. When it concerns objets d'art familiar only to a handful of connoisseurs, it results in a patchy price pattern, from total failure to seli to an occasional outburst when two determined collectors are pitched against each other.

The point was repeatedly made at Drouot io the course of a sale of antiquities conducted by the Laurin-Guilloux-Buffetaud-Tailleur group on May 19 and 20. From the buyer's angle, it was a wonderful sale with a diversity in the range of offerings seidom matched by London or New York auctions. of a late period, probably the sev-enth century B.C. The torso of a lady of the court, broken off below the breasts, is missing its arms. The face is severely damaged. It took a clever photographer's trick to restore for the catalogue the subtle smile that once lit up what must have been an admirable sculpture.

Such poor condition might easily have resulted in failure to sell. But ancient Egyptian art has been the object of numerous exhibitions that have drawn huge crowds. Many coffee table books have come out, films have been shot on ancient Egyptian locations, operas are performed in ancient Thebes, all building up the image of Pharaonic Egypt. While the buyer of a work such as this may be a sophisticated collector, he has to compete with minor museums, dealers and even interior decorators catering for the very rich in the United States. The contrast between the successful Egyptian torso and a Phoe-nician bronze figure believed to have come to light in the Damascus area could not be greater. The Phoenician object has all that a collector could wish for. The sizable piece, 17.5 centimeters (almost inches) tall, is in excellent condition. The dark teddish brown patina adds to the attraction of the superbiy cast bronze. The feminine figure, with the right forearm held forward, fist clenched, and left forearm raised at a low angle in some kind of salute, betrays Egyp-uan influence in its hairdo and its long narrow robe, as is common in the Syrian area at that period.

with another object of extraordi-oary rarity, a Celtic bronze pyrus with champleve enamels. The hex-agonal box with three short feet and a flat top is one of only eight recorded pieces and none has ever been in an auction catalogue. The purely geometrical decoration in square panels and horizontal bands must have been dazzling when the red, yellow, black and white enarael bronze bands are in need of some very delicate cleaning. A ring is missing on the top and the feet have been restored. It is notetheless a dream piece.

In the last four years very high orices have been paid for the more spectacular Celtic works of art that bave surfaced at wide intervals. The current record is held by the bronze arm ornament with swirking dilion - nose and upper lip motifs in low relief — the finest in Celtic art — sold at Christie's for 570,560 (about Si05,800 at the time) in July 1986. Vintage-car rally commemorates the Gordon Bennett Cup of 1904 as part of the International Herald Tribune's centennial celebrations.

T was the biggest automobile race ever held in Germany. Nothing since has drawn the million spectators that lined the 85-mile route of the 1904 Gordon Bennett Race in the Taunus Hills, near Frankfurt.

It was probably Germany's most gala automobile race as well. Kaiser Wilhelm II headed a glittering array of personages from royalty and aristocracy to the social elite. In those days, the motoring world was intimately linked to bigb society.

Homburg (now Bad Homburg) was the center of social activities. Fashionable ladies and gentlemen dined on the terrace of the Ritters Park Hotel, or took evening strolls inthe Kurpark around illuminared fountains and under trees festooned with Chinese lanterns. The two weeks surrounding the june 17 race date were filled with banquets, balls; special theatrical performances, concerts and the like, most of them honored with the presence of the Kaiser.

As for James Gordon bennett, founder of the race, he was most conspicuous by his absence. He made it a point never to attend one of his races, and in fact never in his life drove an automobile. The same science museum also has a copy of the first rockerpowered aircraft, invented as a model plane by Carl Neubronner at age 16.

For young Neubronner, then age 8, and the other youngsters in the area, "the actual day of the Gordon Bennett Race was seen with regret," he recalled. "For days before the race, there were autos in all the barns in Kronberg and we could talk with the drivers. The smell of gasoline was in the air. The drivers were making test runs and coming back in the barns to make repairs and adjustments. We spent whole days in the barn with them. We looked on them as gods,

In addition to the vehicles of yesteryear, a car of tomorrow will be seen in Bad Homburg. The solarmobile (also called a solarcar) was jointly developed and built by the training department of Daimler-Benz AG in Untertürkheim and Sindelfingen and Alpha-Real AG, Zurich. Powered by an AEG solar generator, the vehicle is capable of speeds up to 71 kilometers an hour (44.2 mph) and won the Tour de Sol, Europe's first rally for solar-energy cars. Driver Peter Bauer, 23, an auto mechanic with Mercedes-Benz Switzerland, won all five stages of the 368-kilometer (228.6-mile) course from Romansborn on Lake Constance to Geneva. The solarmobile is not a participant in the Coupe Gordon Bennett and will limit its appearance to Bad Homburg's Kurpark (Spa Park).

A great effort is underway to shed the city's image as a cold, commercial place with little of interest to the visitor. Such a reputation was never deserved. particularly if the city's surroundings are considered. Those who like old-world gaming will appreciate the casinos in the former royal spas of Bad Homburg and Wiesbaden. The most storied part of the Rhine, full of castles, vineyards, pretty rowns and legends, begins at Frankfurt's doorstep. Budingen, a medieval town to match Rothenburg, is only a short distance away, and there is deep forest in every direction.

Frankfurt itself has much to offer as well. Nobody who has spent an evening in the cozy apple wine quarter of Sachsenhausen would ever egain think that Frankfurt's only business is money changing. Much of Sachsenhausen, which is just across the Main River from the duwntuwn area, has been runned into a pedestrian zone, with shady trees and hundreds of oundoor tables when the

Another trumpet sounded, this time with sobering news for the German fans. It was France's Thery, who had started fifth but now was third. He had passed two other cars and his time on the first lap was a second berrer than Jenstzy's.

All Europe was eagerly awaiting the results. Special telephone and telegraph centers had been set up at the Saalburg and journalists from all over were reporting the action. The Gordon Bennett Race returned to France in 1905, and

They won it once again. But this proved to be the last Gordon Bennett Race. The French Automobile Club was unhappy over the fact that each country could only enter three cars, no matter how many manufacturers it had. This might be enough for Switzerland or Belgium, but not for France. Gordon Bennett, however, felt that the proposed changes would alter the character of the race and withdrew his support. He later turned his energies to balloon, aircraft and motorboat events.

HOUGH it is Germaoy's third largest city and a major cultural center, Munich likes to consider itself a big city with a heart. 'Gemütlichkeit" reigns in the city and amid the lakes and mountains of the countryside that surrounds it.

The warm, easygoing spirit of the Bavarian can be found everywhere, in the taxi driver, the shop clerk, the fellow from whom you ask directions on the street. But the main place to find "gemüclichkeit" is in the many cavernous beer halls, with their brass bands. People wave their beer mug and sway to the thythm of the music, or even scand on the cable and sing

Stuttgart Splendor: From Castles to Cars

TUTTGART is a magner for lovers of luxury cars. Both the Mercedes and Porsche factories are located there, as everyone knows who has taken delivery of one of built in 1893 as a Tudor palace those cars in Stuttgart. Both plants have museums and conduct factory rours.

The city is quire picturesque, lying in a deep valley with forested hills and steep vineyards as a backdrop. Some of the older parts of town are also built on steep hillsides, and in places stone steps replace spreets

The city now is the capital of the state of Baden-Würrtemberg and before that was the sear of the kings and dukes of Wüttremberg. This explains why there are a number of palaces in the city. One of these, the New Palace near the rail-

Baden-Baden still is popular as a health resort. A recommended botel for discriminating visitors is the four-star Golf Hotel. Three-hundred-and-fifty feet above the downtown area and situated in a large private park, it is well removed from the bustle. It offers more sport facilities than any other hotel in the city. If you prefer to leave your car at the hotel, a direct bus ride takes you right into the city. The hotel has been in the same family since 1895, and the personal touch and care are obvious wherever you are.

Franconia: A Ride down Romantic Road

RANCONIA probably comes as close as any part of Germany to living up to the country's image. It's a place of forests, beer, artisans and clever gadgetry.

The Franconian capital of Nuremberg became 2 commercially important center about 600 years ago. This is partly because it was at the junction of several important trading routes, which kept it supplied with raw materials and new ideas.

Another factor was the tradioonal diligence of the Franconians. Spurred by relatively easy access to the markets of Europe, they turned to a variety of crafts; goldsmithing, wood carving, tin working, toy making, watchmaking and lots of other things. Among the great names of Nuremberg are Peter Henlein, inventor of the pocket watch; Martin Behaim, who made the first world globe; wood-carver Vict Stoss; cobbler-poet Hans Sachs: sculptor Adam Kraft, and of course, Albrecht Dürer, Ocher everyday items invented in Nuremberg include wire, the pencil and the toy top.

This combination of artistic skills and wealth made Nurenoberg a very beautiful city, and, though it was extensively damaged in World War II, it has been rather well restored. The visitor still gets a vision of walls, towers and roottops clustered beneath the hulking hilltop castle. Albrecht Dörer's house has been restored, and visitors to it get an insight into the life of a 15th-century patrician family.

Other points of interest include a Toy Museum, emphasizing the big role the city played in this field, and a Transport Museum, which reminds us that Nuremberg was for. one of the terminals of Germany's first railroad. An authentic Nuremberg food specialty is the fingersized pork sausage served in quantity on a mound of sauerkraut, And the lebkuchen, 2 very rich cookie of ground almonds, candied fruit, honey and spices, also originated in Nutemberg.

A number of famous smaller cides are within easy reach of Nuremberg. One of them is the celebrated medieval city of Rothenburg, which appears little changed since the Thirty Years War. It almost has the appearance of a stage setting of trade fair expe-Berlin continues to be a major convention center, regularly organizing events of international scope. Since 1979, the International Congress Center Berlin has enriched the city with a communications center and, after eight active years, under- frastructure investment in the scored Berlin's claim to being future of the city. one of the leading convention cities of the world. Berlin profits in several ways from the long list of national and international conferences and meetings. Convention visitors bring along buying power; the convention business creates and preserves jobs in the city; and, not least of all, media coverage gives worldwide publicity to events in the ICC Betlin, providing Berlin with a considerable increase in pressige throughour the world.

Berlin Strengthens Position as Trade Fair Capital

More than 3,500 conventions and 650 cultural and entertainment events have drawn 3.1 million visitors to ICC Berlin since its opening. According to the latest report by Brusselsbased Union of International Associations (UIA), whose annual statistics record meetings by international associations, Berlin remains uncontested as Germany's number one convention city and ranks seventh in the world, after Paris, Lon-

TTH over a century don, Geneva, Brussels, Madrid and Vienna. The internationalrience behind it. ly outstanding utilization quota an average of 75 percent -CYCOES. and the remarkable status of advanced bookings for national and international conventions through the end of the century, justify the construction of the ICC Berlin as an important in-

Of those 3.1 million visitors to ICC Berlin events since 1979, some 473,000 have come from outside the city. Their purchasing power is estimated at 516 million DM ($286 million), a significant figure which translates into increased sales in restaurants and hotels, in cultural and entertainment areas and in the retail sector, which in turn raises tax revenues.

These quantitative results, together with the successful work of the ICC's professional team, have in recent years received international recognition. In 1986, for the third consecurive year, the readers of Conferences & Exhibitions International, a European magazine published in Britain, voted the ICC Berlin best convention center of the year. These readers, the sponsors and organizers of national and international conventions, based their choice on the overall impression and multifunctional aspects of ICC facilities, their modern and technical equipment and ICC's organization and execution of Today, no convention hall in the world can exist without an attractive environment. Berlin provides a favorable location for the convention business because of its economic, scientific and cultural institutions, the technical and scientific potenrial of its two universities and its productive research institutes. Good transportation links constitute an additional trump card. Recent technological developments have generated a profusion of new subject matters that, in turn, generate the need for new forums. The ICC Berlin makes its contribution as a communications and service center. Its events facilitate the dialogue between business and science and make possible the transfer of know-how from and to Berlin. Technical development creates further specialization, strengthens the need for further training, contributes to the founding of new specialinterest associations and creates the need for more trade fairs.

With 80 meeting rooms that can accommodate from 20 to 5,000 people, an extensive lobby floor and direct connection to the Berlin Fairgrounds, the ICC Berlin offers ideal conditions for adapting to the needs of conventions and exhibitions.

Despite increasing competition on the worldwide convention market, the outlook for the ICC Berlin continues to ternain favorable. Large-scale events such as the World Congress for Dermarology 1987, with 7,500 participants, the meeting of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund 1988, with an expected 11,000 people, the World Congress for Chemotherapy 1991, with 10,000 delegates, and the World Congress for Cardiology 1994, with 12,000 attending, as well as hundreds of small- and medium-sized gatherings that are already firmly booked far into the next decade -- all these bode well for the successful continuation of ICC Berlin.

Answer to Savings Mystery: The Budget Deficit Did It

By LEONARD SILK New York Times Service

EW YORK — Foreigners now supply more savings to the U.S. economy than do Americans. In 1986, the inflow of foreign savings to the United States totaled $142 billion, or 3.4 percent of the gross national prod-uct, while domestic savings amounted to only $83 billion, or 2

That development is worrying William C. Freund, chief econo-mist emeritus of the New York Stock Exchange, who has just completed a study. "Investment and Saving: The Engine of Economic Growth," for the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States Without these formers with Eraund the United States. Without those foreign savings, Mr. Freund said in an interview this week. the American economy

If foreigners had

States would have had not come to the

would have been catapulted into a recession." He agreed with Paul A.

Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve, that the volatility in exchange and interest rates "provided a little taste" of how vulnerable our markets and economy have become to the expectations of foreign investors. Mr. Volcker remarked last week, "We are obviously in danger of losing control over our own economie destiny."

Even with the huge inflow of foreign savings, the savings rate in the United States fell to 6.1 percent in 1921-86, compared with 8 percent in the 1970s. Without the foreign savings, the net domes-tic savings rate was just 2 percent in 1986, compared with an average of 7.1 percent in the 1970s, 7.5 percent in the 1960s and 7.1 percent in the 1950s.

Part of the explanation for this steep decline in domestic savings is that personal savings, which averaged 5.5 percent of GNP in the 1970s, dropped to 2.7 percent in 1986. (GNP measures the total value of a nation's goods and services, includ-ing income from foreign investments.) Corporate savings, represented by net corporate earnings, rose slightly, to 2.6 percent in 1986, from an average of 2.5 percent in the 1970s.

Thus, total private savings came down to 6 percent in the 1980s, a significant but not disastrons fall from the rates of 7.5 percent, 8.2 percent and 8 percent in the 1950s, 1960s and 1970s.

B UT THE leading cause of the drop in the domestic savings rate in recent years has been the swelling of the U.S. budget deticit. Budget deficits count as "dissaving," which must be financed by foreign or domestic savers. Back in the 1950s and 1960s, the U.S. government's deficits annually absorbed less than both of L percent of CDW half of 1 percent of GNP.

That percentage exploded to 5.2 percent in 1983 and was still at 4.8 percent in 1986. State and local governments ran a small surplus in 1986, but total governmental dissaving still amounted to 3.3 percent of GNP.

As a result, net domestic savings fell to a mere 2 percent in 1986, compared with an average of 7.2 percent in the three preceding decades. If foreigners had not come to the rescue, Mr, Freund maintains, the United States would have had a colossal savings shortage, which would have "decimated investment plans and economic growth."

The solution to the savings deficit, he says, is to cut the federal redeficit. Based on history, he sees little prospect of raising private savings in the short run. The incentives provided by tax cuts or retirement programs during the Reagan years had little or no effect on private savings, indeed, total net private savings, as-incasured by the Commerce Department, were one-fourth lower in 1981-86 than during the preceding three decades. Whatever the sumulative effect of tax incentives on private savings might have been, it was more than outweighed by the effect of the swollen federal budget deficits on total domestic savings. To reduce dependence on foreign capital inflow and to sustain domestic investment, Mr. Freund contends that by 1991, the budget deficit needs to be cut by at least $100 billion a year. "an amount close to what we draw in through foreign savings."

WASHINGTON - The U.S. economy grew at an annual rate of 4.4 percent in the first three months of 1987, the Commerce Department said Friday, slightly more than the original estimate of 4.3 percent.

The growth in the gross national product was the fastest in almost three years. But the figure left many economists unimpressed because the strength came almost enurely from an unwanted buildup in business inventories. The advance followed a lackluster 1.t percent growth rate in the final quarter of 1986.

GNP is a measure of the nation's goods and services, including income from foreign investments Adjusted for inflation and for seasonal factors, it grew $39.8 billion in the first quarter. Private economists said that the relatively healthy growth rate should not obscure a continued sluggishness in the economy. The expansion was powered by a $63.5 billion rise in business inventories. "Inventories went up and consumption went down" in the quar-ter, said Michael Evans of Evans

Econometrics Inc. "It's the wrong way to move if you want to show improvement in the economy, Lawrence Chimerine of Wharton

Econometric Forecasting Associates, said, "Final demand in the economy is sluggish. The report was consistent with an economy that's just barely growing."

Final business sales dropped by $23.7 billion, a 2.5 percent decline that was the first quarterly decrease since the third quarter of 1982, the low point of the last recession.

The figures included a drop in consumer spending of 1.1 percent, a fall in business investment of 9.7 percent and a decline in housing construction of 4.3 percent.

There were few major changes in

In Luxembourg, Industry Com-missioner Karl-Heinz Narjes said at e conference on steel that the European Commission would have to consider using taxes from steel companies to pay social costs such as layoffs and retraining.

Steelmakers pay a direct tax to the community, mostly to cover re-search and development costs. Officials at the conference said that Mr. Narjes apparently wanted to increase this tax.

EC industry ministers are to dis-cuss the future of the steel industry at e meeting in Luxembourg at the beginning of June. (AP, Reuters)

2 Spaniards Buy 3% of Montedison

MADRID - Two Spanish busisimen have built up a 3 percent stake in the Italian chemicals company Montedison SpA in the higgest Spanish private sector investment outside the country, a spokesman said Friday.

Mario Conde and Juan Abello paid 18 billion pesetas ($145.2 mil-jion) for 60 million shares in Monedison, acquiring them gradually on the Milan stock exchange, the spokesman for the two businessmen, Fernando Garro, said.

Mr. Conde and Mr. Abello financed the purchase by selling Anhoticos SA, the Madrid-based pharmaceuticals company they founded, to Montedison earlier this year for 58.2 billion pesetas.

Mexico to Sell Majority Stake

In Mexicana Air

Renter MEXICO CITY - The government has announced that it will sell its majority stake in Mexicana Airlines as part of a program to divest itself of un-profitable state-controlled companies.

The move Thursday came as Mexicana reported a loss in 1986 of $15.5 million, bringing its accumulated losses at the end of that year to about $74.4 million.

The government called for prospective buyers to submit bids by June 30.

The airline serves 32 Mexi-can, 10 major U.S. cities and 14 other in ternational destinations and shares routes within Mexico with Acromexico. It carried 8.6 million passengers in 1985 and an estimated 10.4 million last year, using a fleet of 40 Boeing 727-200s and five DC10-15s.

Expansion of Elders Seems No Small Beer By Michael Richardson & Co., said he believed that the tional Herald Tribune SINGAPORE - Four years ago, Elders IXL Ltd. made much of its money from what it called its "pastoral" interests: beef. wool and jam. Now, having come from nowhere to capture the sixth position among international brewers, the aggressive Australian conglomerate is hoping to ex-pand further by shepherding more of the world's beer drinkers to its own brands. Elders's interests in Australia and overseas cover finance, trade, mining and agriculture. But Bruce H. Sincy, Elders executive director for brewing, said beer has been the key to the rapid expansion of Elders, which is now Australia's fifth-largest company. And it has not been small beer. Elders entered the brewing business in 1983 when it took over Carlton and United Breweries Ltd., makers of Foster's lager, Australia's top selling brand. The cost of obtaining a majority stake was 480 million Australian dollars ($345 million at current exchange rates). After an abortive bid in 1985

The renamed company's revenue then jumped to 7.7 billion dollars in the year ended June 30, 1986, from 2.8 billion dollars in 1981-82. Operating profit rose to 209 million dollars from 61.3 million dollars.

Elders's profit rose 70 percent last year to a record 181.41 million dollars.

Brewing accounted for 46 percent of group operating profit in 1986, finance for 20 percent, investment 15 percent, interna-tional trade-related activities 10 percent, and agricultural operations 9 percent.

Elders had to borrow heavily to buy Courage last year, and Mr. Elliott said he hoped to announce details within two weeks of a selloff of the 5,000 public houses owned by the British

In April, Elders said it hoped to raise about £1 billion ($1.68 million) through the selloff, but would retain a one-third interest in the pubs. Mr. Wheeler, the analyst, said that Elders's preferred option

John C. Emost Elders IXL

> was to float the pubs on the London Stock Exchange. Mr. Elliott said that when his company bought Courage. Elders had debis of about 4 billion dollars, mainly in loans from banks. Since then, two bond issues convertible into Elders sbares have raised 1.2 billion dollars while a rights issue to sharebold-ers has raised 900 million dollars. After shares in the Courage pubs are sold, Mr. Elliott said that Elders probably would have "less than t billion in debt, against shareholders funds of 5 or 6 billion and group assets of 6 to 7 billion." Elders would then be "in a good position to make further acquisitions and build further growth."

The markets have been speculating about his intentions. In April 1986, Elders spent nearly 1.7 billion dollars to buy more than 18 percent of the issued ordinary capital of the resource and steel giant, Broken Hill Proprietary Co., Australia's biggest conglomerate.

Aoalysts are divided on whether Elders will make a full bid, but Mr. Elliott would not comment, only saying he was happy with the BHP investment. But Australian analysis believe that Elders is preparing for another major acquisition. The troubled British liquor group Guinness PLC and the U.S. brewer Anheuser-Busch Cos. have been mentioned as possibil-

Time Inc. to Sell Ailing Discover

New York Times Service NEW YORK - Time Inc., continuing the cutbacks begun in late 1985, has announced plans to sell its money-losing science magazine, Discover, to Family Media for $26 million.

The decision to sell the magazine represents a turnaround by zine represents a turnaround by Time. Last year, when the com-pany laid off employees and closed other money-losing mag-azines, executives repeatedly emphasized their commitment to the science magazine.

Reginald Brack Jr., president of Time Inc.'s magazine group, said Thursday that because Discover differed from most Time Inc. magazines by being a special-interest publication, it would do better as part of a company like Family Media with similar publishing interests.

Dollar Firms on U.S. Economic News

Compiled by Our Staff From Dispatches NEW YORK - The dollar advanced Friday on the strength of a reported 4.4 percent rate of eco-nomic growth in the United States in the first quarter and a sharp drop in gold and silver prices. Dealers said that most U.S. traders squared, or neutralized, their positions ahead of Monday's Memorial Day holiday in U.S. markets. In New York, the dollar closed at 1.7820 Deutsche marks, up from 1.7765 Thursday; at 140.85 yan, up -from 140.65; at 1.4640 Swiss francs, up from 1.4570; and at 5.9575 French francs, up from . 29425.

It was also higher against the British pound, which closed at $1.6680, against $1.6800 Thursday, Republic National Bank in New York closed cash gold at $464 an ounce, down from Thursday's $469.75.

from $8.775 on the cash market. Revised government figures showed a growth rate of 4.4 percent in GNP in the first quarter, up slightly from an earlier estimate. The GNP implicit price deflator, scen as a more accurate barometer of inflation than the consumer and producer price indexes, rose 4.2 percent, revised upward from 3.5 percent

"The dollar started up right after the numbers, and was helped along by the sharp fall in gold and silver," said Earl Johnson, vice president at

Chicago's Harris Bank. "But the economic numbers were not good numbers, and the dollar met resistance at key technical levels on the yen and mark."

But Mr. Johnson said he believed the "key thing stabilizing the dollar Cooperation and Development, Japan and West Germany, both of which have low inflation, were urged to lower long-term interestrates to stimulate economic expansion.

Financial sources said that the interest rate on loans offered by such public institutions as Japan Development Bank, which now stands at 5.2 percent, would also be lowered, along with the rate on housing loans.

Short-term interest rates have fallen to about 3.5 percent as a result of "guidance" by the Bank of Japan.

The prime rate reduction is to be timed with comprehensive economic measures to be worked out by the government next week. Government officials said that

In addition to unpredictable day-to-day latest data lay in explaining the high Fed funds rate on Monday and Tuesday, a $200 million-a-day increase in excess reserves, and the Fed's drain of liquidity on Wednesday. Markets said that the key day was Friday, May 15, when he surmises that banks flocked to pay for recently auctioned Treasury debt. Additional reserves flowed into the system because Treasury balances turned out to be lower than expected, resulting in a large discount window, and borrowings jumped Wednesday to $1.59 billion.

U.S. Smashes Ring That Smuggled Steroids

By Jim Schachter Los Angeles Times Service SAN DIEGO - U.S. prosecutors have said they shattered an international drug network, headed by an Olympic track medalist, that claimed to control 70 percent of the $100 million U.S. hlack market in anabolic steroids, the bulk-producing drugs favored by many amateur and professional athletes.

A 110-count federal grand jury indictment, unsealed Thursday, said that the ring manufactured a variety of steroids - some of them impure or mislabeled - at a legal drug plant in Tijuana, Mexico and smuggled them across the U.S. border at San Ysidro, California. The indictment described a nationwide distributioo system that occasionally employed strong-arm tactics and threats to collect payments.

Among the suspects arrested Thursday by federal agents was Patrick Jacobs, 31, associate strength coach at the University of Miami in Florida, who was named in the indictment as a distributor for the alleged drug ring. Universi-ty officials said Jacobs, who worked with the Hurricanes football team and other athletes, had been suspended. They also an-nounced that a Miami law firm had been hired to investigate steroid use by the school's athletes.

U.S. Attorney Peter K. Nuncz said that the drug network's mas-termind was David Jenkins, 35, of Carlshad, California, a member of Britain's silver medal-winning 1,600-meter relay team in the 1972 Munich Olympics. The indicument alleges that Jenkins conspired with a Mexican drug producer, Juan Ja-vier Macklis, to manufacture millions of dollars worth of steroids at Macklis's plant in Tijuana.

Steroids are legally available in the United States only hy prescrip-tion for treatment of a handful of conditions, including breast cancer and some complications of kidney failure. The Food and Drug Administration has strictly limited their legal uses because of serious, documented side effects, including liver and prostate cancer, sterility. hirth defects, behavioral changes and increased risk of beart disease, Investigators said that the demand in the United States for illegal steroids has swelled in conjunction with two phenomena: a crackdown by the FDA on the domestic manufacture of the drugs, and the growing demand for steroids among not only athletes in organized competition, but among average weekend athletes.

Jenkins, a Britisb subject, was arrested April 28 and is being beld without bail at the Metropolitan Correctional Center in San Diego, according to his attorney, Robert Grimes. At least 12 of the 34 defendants named in the indictment had been arrested by midday Thursday.

At Indy, the Thrill of Speed, the Imminence of Death

By Tony Komheiser ashington Post Service

WASHINGTON - Standing atop the knee-high pit wall, not five feet (1.5 meters) from the track itself. I leaned out hesitantly, craning to see the car I knew was approaching from the thunderous rumbling in the distance. It was a midweck practice day at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway in the spring of 1972. A driver had the entire course to himself for 15 minutes or so, and without any concern for traffic he was free to stand on the throttle and goose every ounce of speed from his engine. I was in Indianapolis covering the championship series of the old American Basketball Association, and I'd gone to the track because a friend insisted that regardless of how lunatic I thought auto racing was, I had to go watch an Indy can run and get close enough to feel the palpable surge of speed as the car roared by. So I stood on the pit wall waiting, half-scared that the car would hit me and half-crazy with a teenage urge to run across the track in its path

It went hy me in a heartheat. It was a hright, buttery yellow, and it had a number on the side that was just a hlur. I stood there, shivering as it passed, thrilled, but paralyzed by the terrifying sound of the engine and the raw, uncompromised power of speed. The car moved at more than 200 mph (325 kpb), and its wake left a choppy current of air as warm as a slap in the face.

Speed had always uneased me didn't drive fast, and I didn't hi riding with people who did, B watching this car whoosh by m slung low like a panther, this w different, exhilarating. I wanted see this again. I wanted to see it real, the full flight of 33 race going at it, hornets swarming in the first turn, louder than air ra sirens. The next May, I went to Indianapolis 500 for the first tit undeterred by the fact that a vet an driver, 46-year-old Art Polla was killed in qualifying. Death v

For 57 laps the race proceded uneventfully. But on the 58th David (Swede) Savage, a 26-year-old fresh-faced blond, lost control of his car and it crashed, first into the inside wall, then the outside wall, exploding spectacularly, like a down Pit Row. comer, and disintegrating into pieces of twisted metal. One of the crewmen who ran to help Savage was Armando Teran, who was working in Graham McRae's pit. Teran was fatally hit from behind by a fire truck also rushing to Savage's aid. The force of the blow bumped Teran's body 10 feet into the air. He bounced off the hood of the truck to the pavement and tumbled, stopping 35 feet

I'm reminded of that race by the epidemie of crashes during qualifying and time trials for this year's Indy. There have been no deaths, but surely some are coming. Thirty-six drivers have died at Indy, in practice or in the 500 itself. Six of the 33 drivers who started the 1973 race are dead, five in vehicle accidents. It's disturbing to think that boxers sometimes try to kill each other in the ring. But in auto racing, a fact of life for Indy-car drivers, a Snadow on them all the time. For most of the drivers, the danger that hovered over their work accentuated the thrill. i became infatuated with the drivers and with Gasoline Alley, the garage area where they relaxed as the mechanics fine-tuned the cars. Some of the drivers were reclusive, suspicious types, but many were confident and dared to create the impression that anything was possible with them, even conversation. More so than the grimier stock-car circuit, the Indy 500 attracted a stylish, manicured set of hangers-on, befitting the buffed sleekness of the machines. Gasoline Alley had a surprising European elegance, a dry-wit cocktail hour sophistication as evidenced by drivers like David Hobbs, a raffish Briton; Mark Donohue, a Brown University graduate, and Peter Revson, the cosmetics heir. Hobbs still races a bit. Donohue and Revn are dead.

The two days before the race the central Indiana sky was low and thick, and the morning of the race it rained, delaying the start four hours. Not five seconds after the race began, heading toward the first turn, two cars in the sixth row -David (Salt) Walther's and Jerry Grant's - brushed wheels. Walther's flew topsy-turvy into the air, landed, veered right, towards the crowd, crashed into the wall incre, shearing off two concrete poles, and came apart violently, showering smoke and flames over the track and onto the spectators as it disintegrated. Rebounding off the wall. Walther's car flipped onto its back and spun chaotically as the following drivers desperately tried v avoid it as well as each other.

Ten cars were entangled in the mess, baptized in the sudden fire of the Indy. Nine of the drivers escaped serious injury and were working on their cars within hours. Twelve spectators were burt or burned - name seriously - struck by chunks of the cars that passed through a flimsy wire fence. Only Walther, a 25-year-old rich kid from Dayton driving a car his dad-dy owned, was badly hurt, burned, but said to be recovering nicely.

POSTCARD Lunching Early in Lyon

By Julian Nundy nai Henald Tribine

YON - At sunset, the pastel shades of Old Lyon take on a Florentine heauty, reflected in the ripples of the Saone. Dominated by the Basilica of Notre Dame on the Fourviere hill. Lyon takes easily to its role as France's second city or - the Lyonnais eats aloue. as some locals would have it - as 'the deputy capital."

The basilica, where Cardinal Albert Decourtray, the primate of the Gauls. officiates, gives a spectacu-lar allure to what the Lyonnais call "the hill that prays." Opposite stands the Croix Rousse hill traditionally known as "the hill that does the work."

In past centuries, it was the principal site of the silk industry that made Lyon, or Lugdunum as the Romans named it. a center of commerce and power. Beneath the two hills lies what one modern chronicler of Lyon life has dubbed "the peninsula that earns the money." Here, on the last kilometer or two of land before the Rhone and the Saone, on whose confluence Lyon lies, join and head south to the Mediterranean, is the city's business center. With its own Bourse, dozens of local hanks and the presiggious names of international hanking, such as Chase Manhattan, the peninsula exudes a self-confident air of prosperity. But Lyon is much more than just praving, working and earning mon-ey. With full justification, it is known as one of the centers of French cuisine. The restaurants, from the famous and multi-starred to the simplest histrot, are welcoming and hustling. Always full. somehow they are never so full that a free table cannot be found. There is nothing "nouvelle" about the disbes served. Even andouillettes, chitterling sausages, are likely to come served in a creamy, mustard sauce or stewed in Beaujolais. Happily adjacent to the Beauof a fresh, pure taste. Lunch in seemed to be locals. As time went Lyoo, at one of the many fashionable histrots in the old town or gastric time clocks and the restaubrasseries in the business center. rant trade started to pick up. appears to be some sort of high mass for the stomach, a rite that it would almost be sinful to miss. According to Pierre Merindol. of Old Lyon, Aloae, of course.

the author of two books on the city. lunch is without doubt the most important event of the day, bringing "sensual pleasure for even the most somber banker." But the importance of lunch with friends or associates, he says, is dwarfed by another sort of meal - that which "Good cooking is a source of inspiration. Far from clouding his spirit, the quality of a good wine or an old brandy makes him agile and shrewd. Salacious. too." Merindol. in a book entitled "Lyon: Blood and Money," which talks about many things besides food and wine, describes one local personality whose taste huds would spend weeks preparing for the first woodcock of the season.

When the word came that the game was in the bag, he would head for his favorite restaurant for a solitary meal. There would always be two white tablecloths. One lay on the table, under the silver dish carrying the bird. The second was delicately placed over the table and over the customer's head, like a towel over an inhalation, to ensure that not of a trace of the precious vapors could escape.

This month, the trial of Klaus Barbie, for crimes committed dur-ing the World War II Nazi occupation of the city, gave Lyon a chance to put itself on the map. The city authorities planned a major promotion campaign, and did not forget to include two restaurant guides in an elaborate press kit issued to the nearly 1,000 accredited journalists and broadcasting technicians who arrived for the opening.

But it transpired that the court hearings would not begin until 1:30 P.M. each day - right at lunch time. Lyon's restaurateurs were equal to the challenge. They quickly put the word out: They would open at 11 A.M. to allow all those who so wanted to grab an early two iolais country. Lyon is a cirv where and a half hour lunch before the the visitor can risk even the lowliest court opened. # 'Stars Wars': The Lucas Saga

INTERNATIONAL HERALD TRIBUNE, SATURDAY-SUNDAY, MAY 23-24, 1987

By Aljean Harmerz New York Times Service OS ANGELES - One decade ago, the Millennium Falcon sailed the skies of the Galactic Empire for the first time - and transformed the motion pieture industry. "Star Wars" opened on May 25, 1977, and became the most successful movie in history. The saga of Luke Skywalker, Han Solo, Obi-Wan Kenobi and Darth Vader sold more than $400 million worth of tickets in North America alone. "Jaws," in second place, was $125 million behind.

The unprecedented success of a movie set in a galaxy long ago and far away turned Hollywood's attitudes toward science fiction upside down, changed the industry's definition of summer, re-established symphonic music in films, exploded the boundaries of special effects, helped unleash years of movies aimed at teen-agers, gave new importance to sound, created a pop mythology, and made merchandising the characters from a movie as important as the movie itself.

It also turned a shy 33-year-old director from California's sun-baked central valley into a movie mogul.

Looking back 10 years. George Lucas still remembers what he hoped for then: that "Star Wars" would make enough money to allow him to produce a sequel. "Star Wars" was actually "Episode IV: A New Hope" of a nine-film saga that had played in his mind for vears as a serial.

What happened was "pretty amazing" he said in his slow, eareful country twang. He was telephoning from Skywalker Ranch, his 3,000-acre film-production domain in north-ern California — 3,000 acres of redwood groves, meadows of wild flowers, and stateof-the-art post-production equipment.

Since he finished the "Star Wars" trilogy with "Return of the Jedi" in 1983, he has been lending his name and financial clout to other people's movies ("Howard the Duck") or collaborating with Steven Spielberg ("Indi-ana Jones"). Now, in London, he is making "Willow," his own undisguised fairy tale populated by elves, fairies and trolls - reworking the themes of good vs. evil and personal accountability that were to him the essence of "Star Wars."

"The underlying issues, the psychological motives, in all my movies have been the same," he said, "Personal responsibility and friendship, the importance of a compassionate life as opposed to a passionate life."

He said he thought the success of "Star Wars" was the combination of "classic themes told in an innovative way." Lucasfilm has been responsible for creating advanced editing equipment and a new sound system for theaters, Industrial Light and Magic, Lucasfilm's special effects company, has revolutionized special effects. "Film is a very technical medium." Lucas said. "New technology - whether it's new film stock or electronic editing or special effects - enchances the tools you have available and expands your vocabulary. But they don't make a picture successful. A film is not about technique. It's about ideas."

The "Star Wars" trilogy has sold more than $1.2 hillion worth of tickets and $1.5 hillion worth of books, toys, pillowcases, T-shirts, posters, and lunchboxes, Although "ET." has replaced "Star Wars" as the world's big-gest box-office success, George Lucas's tril-ogy remains, according to Lucasfilm's vice president of licensing, Howard Roffman, the most successful "boys toys phenomenon." "Star Wars" reiterated the lesson that had been taught by "Jaws" two years earlier. Teen-agers and young adults would go back again and again to a movie that excited them. "Star Wars," however, taught a new lesson: that a phenomenally successful movie could be made without star actors and from original material. "Jaws" and "The Exorcist." the film's closest rivals, had come from bestselling books, "E.T" and "Raiders of the Lost Ark" would come from the heads and technique of Steven Spielberg and George Lucas. "Star Wars" also outdated the truism that science fiction had a limited audience, George Lucas transcended the limits by taking the morality and characters of the western, a dving genre, and transposing them to outer space.

"George Lucas effectively moved the summer forward two weeks, from the middle of June to the end of May," said Tom Sherak, president of distribution at 20th Century-Fox. "The Wednesday before Memorial Day is called George Lucas Day." This week Para-mount opened "Beverly Hills Cop II" on George Lucas Day.

If the effects of "Star Wars" on the movie industry were great, the effects on Lucas were greater. It allowed him to finance "The Empire Strikes Back" and, with the profits of that movie, to build Skywalker Ranch and his film technology empire and to reap a person-al fortune of $50 million - most of which he eventually lost in a divorce from his wife of 15 years.

As the Force and Darth Vader entered the language as symbols of good and evil, Lucas found himself the target of fans and fanatics, to a point where - already solitary - he became almost a total recluse.

"That kind of success is very difficult to deal with, very disruptive to one's personal life," said Lucas, who has just turned 43. "It took eight years and a lot of creative energy and emotional torment to complete the mov ies. Then the divorce. Divorce is a very difficult thing financially and emotionally. I went into a several-year tailspin."

He pulled out of the tailspin simply by growing a little. "I am older. That counts for a lot. And I'm a little hit wiser. Age mellows one out. There's a threshold you pass at 40. You become a little hit more accepting of life and settle in. You don't fight it so hard."

Universal, which had made and profited from Lucas's "American Graffiti," and Unit-ed Artists turned down "Star Wars" before Alan Ladd Jr. convinced the 20th Century-Fox board to allow him to gamble $9 million on a science-fiction film. "Looking back, I get a perverse enjoyment." Ladd says today.

Ladd now chairman of MGM Pictures. made a deal this week to distribute "Willow," which Ron Howard is directing and Lucas is taking the risk of financing himself. From "A Midsummer Night's Dream" with Mickey Rooney as Puck in 1935 to Ridley Scott's "Legend" and Jim Henson's "Labyrinth" in 1986, fairy tales have been commercially unsuccessful

"I've had the idea for 15 years," said Lucas about "Willow," which he describes as "not a caveman movie or a knight-in-shining-armor movie but a movie that takes place on earth way in B.C." Technology has finally ad-vanced enough to supply the tools for him to make the movie,

As to the other six installments of "Star Wars," he said, "I'm kicking it around in my head. I keep mulling the story around to make it more interesting to myself, to bring tones and textures that excite me."
